The Bob-Tail Cars, Manager Steele Says, Are to Run on the Lines All Winter.

He Regards Past Legislation by the City Relative to Cars and Conductors Ineffective -The West Indianapolis Franchise.

THE BOB-TAIL CAR.

Manager Steele, of the Citizens' Company, Tells What Will Be Done.

The Citizens' Street Railroad Company took a decided stand yesterday in regard to the question of retaining single-platform cars on its lines. Since the action of the Common Council and Board of Aldermen, Monday night, in ordering suit brought against the company for violating the ordinance, a warfare against the bob-tail was begun by citizens on several of the lines. One rule of the company prohibits any driver One rule of the company prohibits any driver on a car not provided with a conductor, from leaving his place on the front platform. Taking advantage of this, passengers who hope to force the company into using double platforms, have refused to deposit their fares in the boxes provided for that purpose, claiming that, under the ordinance, the company is compelled to provide a man to make the collection. Yesterday afternoon William T. Steele, manager of the lines, issued an order to the effect that all drivers, when refused a fare, make a polite demand for the money. If the passengers refused to pay he should stop the car and collect in person. The effect of this order was to bring the majority of the passengers to terms.

Superintendent Shaffer was not in the city yesterday, but a reporter found Mr. Steele at his residence. He was perfectly willing to talk on the future policy of the company, although, if what he said be carried out, it will throw more than one hundred men out of employment. The reporter quoted the ordinance of May 1, 1888, to him, which reads as follows: "Be it ordained by the Common Council and Board of Aldermen of the city of Indianapolis that the Citizens' Street Railway Company of Indianapolis, be and is hereby required to provide and maintain a conductor on each of ist cars on the following lines, to-wit: Massachusetts and Virginia avenues, Pennsylvania and Illinois streets and Blake and Noble streets, in addition to the driver on such car. It shall be the duty of such conductors to have general charge and control of such cars; to receive and collect the fares of passengers; to use care and diligence to of such cars; to receive and collect the fares of passengers; to use care and diligence to prevent injury to persons and property; to announce to passengers in a distinct tone of voice the names of all streets crossed by said railways as soon as the cars have approached such cross streets, and to perform all the duties required in said ordinance of Jan. 18, 1864, and in all ordinances amendatory hereof and supplemental thereto, to which this is supplemental."

"Is the company complying with every "Is the company complying with every provision of that ordinance?" asked the re-

"No, it is not," was the reply. "Our conductors are not calling out the names of the streets, and I do not know as we shall give orders to that effect.".

'How about the conductors?" "That is a matter more talked about than complained of. I have heard that passengers are refusing to pay their fares, but I don't believe it is so. The fact is, I believe the majority of those who ride in winter will not object to the bob-tail car." "It can be run cheaper, can it not, than the platform car?" Yes; we can run two bob-tail cars for "You do not consider that you are violating the ordinance in running these bob-"No, I do not. In our original charter there is a clause that says we can run a car with a driver or a conductor, and we are working under that clause." "But the ordinance of 1888 has not been 'No, it has not, but I don't see how the city can force us to put on conductors. I see they have ordered suit against us, but, in my opinion, it will never be filed. Two years ago there was not a conductor in Indianapolis. Last summer we put on a great many, and next summer we will put on

"Does the company intend to run its cars the rest of the winter as it is at present?" "It does, so far as I know."
"The bob-tail is here to stay, then?"
"Yes, it is here to stay."

AGITATED OVER A FRANCHISE. The Discussion That Is Exciting the Interest of West Indianapolis People, It was expected that the street-car question, which has been agreating West Indianapolis for the past two months, would receive a settlement at last night's meeting of the Town Board. Those who held to that opinion were both disappointed and surprised. President Shinn submitted another ordinance, which differed materially from any of its predecessors. It limited the franchise of the Citizens' company to eleven and a half years, compelled it to use the most improved Johnson L rail in building the road and keep the space between the tracks bowldered, while the trustees reserved the right to allow other street-car lines upon the streets not occupied by the Citizens' company. Trustees Shinn and Lawrence were anxious to put the ordinance through, but trustee Griffin opposed it on the grounds that it was useless to submit such terms to the company when the latter refused to accept anything less than a fifty-year exclusive right of way on all streets. An effort was made to effect a compromise as to the length of time the franchise should run, but it failed, and the meeting adjourned, after an exciting debate, without having progressed toward a settlement of the question. The president of the board has called another meeting for this evening, but it is probable the matter will "hang fire" until the regular meeting next Monday, when a majority of the board will be sufficient to carry the ordinance.

The citizens of West Indianapolis are much divided in their opinion as to what course is the best to take. Trustees Shinn and Lawrence represent that portion other street-car lines upon the streets and Lawrence represent that portion who hold that it is unwise to give any company exclusive right to the streets for a long term of years. They believe that the proposed line will be a paying one from the start, and, that in a few years, if the proposed line will be a paying one from the start, and, that in a few years, if the suburb continues to grow as rapidly as at present, the town could dispose of such a franchise as the Citizens' Company is now asking for a cash consideration that would run well up into the thousands of dollars. They feel, also, that there is no surety that the company will get an extension of franchise in the city, when the present one expires and that, in such a case, they will have a "white elephant" line on their hands, which will not carry them beyond the confines of the town. They are willing, therefore, to grant the company use of the streets only as long as they have a guarantee of communication with the city lines. The citizens Trustee Griffin represents are anxious to have a line built at once, and see no other way of procuring it except by making concessions to the only company that can give it to them now. They point to Irvington and Brightwood and the electric lines now being built, which will give these rival suburbs rapid transit, and argue that West Indianapolis will receive a set-back in her rapid growth unless better communication to and from the city shall be furnished.

Point is given to this argument by the fact that certain real-estate men along the

the city shall be furnished.

Point is given to this argument by the fact that certain real-estate men along the route of the proposed line have agreed to give the Citizens' company $1,250 if a half mile of track be laid this fall. These citizens are quite auxious, of course, to shorten the term of franchise to the fewest years possible, but seeing that the company will not accept a franchise under fifty years, they hold that the town had better grant it than do without the had better grant it than do without the line. The excitement is increasing, and it is probable that lively discussions will mark the proceedings of the board to-night and until a decision is reached. It is a question, in fact, whether the matter will not yet be submitted to a vote of the people.

They Tried to Get a Pension. Deputy Marshal Mounts yesterday arrested David Schmitz, a janitor at the court-house, and John Knaur, on a charge hands of Oliver Cousins.

of making false affidavits to secure a pension, on Jan. 8, 1887. A preliminary hearing was given them during the afternoon by Commissioner Van Buren. A written statement given by Knaur was put in as testimony against Schmitz, in which the former acknowledged his guilt in the fraud, and said that it was done by him under the inflence of drink and at the instance of Schmitz. The act consisted in affixing the name of Michael W. Ream, of Peru, to pension papers forwarded to the government authorities. The prisoners were re-

IMPROVING TARGET-SHOOTING.

What the American Association Proposes to Do for the Marksmen of the Country.

Maj. J. N. Taylor, of New York city, general manager of the American Shooting Association, was in the city yesterday, and called upon a number of local trap-shooters. He is visiting a dozen or more cities in the West, with a view to select points at which shooting tournaments may be given next spring. The Major stands six feet four and one-half inches in his bare feet, and when he has on his walking-shoes, comes very near to six and a half feet. "The association," said he, "has thus far given two tournaments, one in Cincinnati, in June, and another in Boston, August. It was organized for purpose of classifying the trap shots of the country. It had got so throughout the country that a few crack shots took everything, and the other shooters were simply contributors. With proper classification will come increased interest in the sport. will come increased interest in the sport. The principal manufacturers of guns, ammunition and targets have backed the association in furnishing it capital for two years to come. It is estimated that there are between eighty and one hundred thousand trap shooters in the United States. During the past four months we have made a record of over two thousand organizations, and we think there are twice that many clubs. In dividing shooters into classes the A class will comprise men who average from 86 to 100 on the target; B class, 70 to 85, inclusive; C class, to average under 70. We shall give tournaments, with a guaranteed award of $1,000, divided among these classes. The Chamberlin Cartridge Company, and other Chamberlin Cartridge Company, and other agencies, had only classified, until we ook hold of the matter, about 300 shooters in the last ten years, while we have classified over 1,400 in the last five months."
"What is your mode of classification?" inquired the reporter.

"It is to take the average shooting of a man for six months or more, and base his classification upon that, and no man can object to that mode. We require all who shoot in our association to fill up a classification certificate that we furnish, and that is to be signed by the secretary or treasurer of the club to which he belongs, and it must give his average per cent. In our tournaments we give just as much money to class C as to the A or B class. The C class has heretofore been taught to stay at home. Our object is to educate them to come out and take part in the tournaments."

Yesterday afternoon, in company with Dr. S. H. Moore, the Major went out to take a look at the exposition grounds, which will probably be selected as a place for holding one of the spring tournaments, probably sometime in May. He left at 5 P. M. for Lafayette.

BUSINESS ENTERPRISE.

Additions to the Plant and Bulldings of the Malleable Iron Company.

The Malleable Iron Company, of Haughville, has recently purchased five acres adjacent to the site of its present works. Two buildings are being erected at a cost of $5,000, the one a foundry, 110 feet in length, and the other a shipping room, eighty-five feet. These additions will give employment to one hundred new hands. When the buildings are completed the combined works of the Malleable company and the Ewart Manufacturing Company will cover fifteen acres, making it one of the largest establishments in the country.

Sale of Short-Horns.

The combination sale of short-horn cattle at the fair grounds was only moderately attended yesterday. G. F. Damon, E. F. Folsom and W. F. Christian & Son, of Marion county; E. F. Owen and H. P. Owen, of New Harmony, and A. Arbogast, Owen, of New Harmony, and A. Arbogast, of Ohio, entered stock for sale, and the prices brought were as high as expected. At least they were considered very fair for the time of the year, as all thoroughbred stock now brings at best a low price. The average price realized was $58, although some from the farms of Mr. Arbogast averaged $116. Sixty head were sold, and among the buyers were Hiram Miller, purchaser of a cow from the Cypress family, $200; J. L. Ray, Franklin, who bought a cow from the Princess family, $155, and L. W. Holloway, city, who purchased a cow from the Royal Duchess family, $175.

family, $175. Manufacturers of Handles. The Western "D" Haudle Association, comprising the men engaged in the manufacture of "D" handles in Ohio and Indiana, and who control the bulk of the product in the United States, held their annual meeting at the Bates House yesterday afternoon. The following firms were represented: Maldron & Maxino, New Castle; Clark & Benjamin, Sidney, O.; O. B. Selfridge & Co., Lima, O.; Clark, Lord & Co., Fort Recovery, O.; Lampson & Cleveland, Frankfort; James Boyce & Co., Muncie; F. C. Blanchard, Shelbyville; Marion Handleworks, Marion. The question of prices and other matters were discussed, and officers elected for the current year. A well-orgaelected for the current year. A well-organized campaign was inaugurated against outsiders who may engage in the manufacture of "D" handles.

A Large Oil-Storing House. Scofield, Shurmer & Teagle, of Cleveland. O., who operate as the Great Western Oilworks, are building a house at the intersection of Vermont street and the Bee-line tracks for the storage of oils. It will be completed in about a month. Next to the Standard Oil Company this firm is the largest handler of petroleum and its products in the United States. Robert P. Duncan, of this city, will be the manager of their business for this State, and will make this city the distributing point.

State-House Notes. Secretary Heron yesterday morning occupied his desk in the agricultural department for the first time since the State fair. He is, as yet, unable to submit a report upon the financial matters in regard to the fair, as the treasurer and superintendent are away from the city. Several agricultural curiosities and mementoes have been added to the show-cases, and Mr. Heron proposes to erect in the center of the room a pyramid entirely composed of grain. The report of the department, issued by the secretary in book form, has not yet been distributed, owing to delay in receiving it from the printer.

President Langsdale, of the Monument Commission, yesterday received notification that Bruno Schmitz, the architect, had carried off the award for the best design for the statue to be erected in Berlin to the late Emperor William. TWO ATTEMPTS AT SUICIDE.

John Kelley Remorseful Over His Arrest Nearly Succeeds in Hanging Himself.

John Kelley, of 224 West Washington drunkenness and locked up at the police station. About 7:30 o'clock last night the attention of turnkey Clark was attracted by the loud outcries of a boy in the street next the cell room, who was shouting that Kelley was attempting to hang himself. The turnkey and officers with him found prisoner hanging with an pair of suspenders around neck from one of the iron his neck from one of the iron bars of his cell. His tongue was lolling out of his mouth, and he was apparently in the last stages of suffocation. Kelley, upon being cut down, was taken in the officers' room, and the police surgeon telephoned for. While waiting for his arrival, the police poured a plentiful supply of cold water upon the would-be suicide, and this method of treatment had the effect, in the course of half an hour, of bringing the man to his senses. Kelley was then confined in the big room which was occupied by several tramps. Here again he endeavored to hang himself, this time with his handkerchief. He strung himself up to one of the iron bars of the win-one of the iron bars of the window, and but for the alarm of one of the tramps who heard his heavy breathing he would have succeeded. As it was, he was in a nearly unconscious condition. Kelley stated that he wished to end his life because he felt so downhearted at finding himself in the station-house. He has a wife and large family living on Washington street, and had been employed for eighteen years in a large pork-packing establishment. Yesterday's drunk, he said, was the first for a long time. but for

PROSPECT FOR CHEAP BEER.

Some Things That Will Probably Be Eliminated from Present Business Methods.

The transfer of the breweries of this city to a British syndicate is likely to bring about an entire change in the manner of and a sharp reduction in the keg price is likely to follow. "Do you know the value represented in a keg of beer-that is, in the contents exclusive of the cost of the keg?" inquired a gentleman of the reporter. "You | dren's Table Trays, etc., etc. do not? Then I will tell you. A friend of mine-I need not give his name, but he is a brewer-told me that, as beer is now made, it did not exceed 12 cents a keg-that is for one-fourth of a barrel. To this add the revenue on a quarter-barrel, 25 cents, and you have a total of 37 cents. The keg and you have a total of 37 cents. The keg of beer is sold to the retailer at $2. Now the profit to the brewer is not the difference between these two amounts, $1.63. He does business in too loose and liberal a way to admit of making quite so large a profit.

In fact he does not make more than $1 a keg clear profit."

"What becomes of the other sixty-seven cents?" inquired the reporter..

"That is spent among the brewer's customers in treating. The man who drives the delivery wagon and the collector are given money to spend among the saloons.
When the collector comes in with his bill and the saloon-keeper pays it the collector is expected to treat every body in the house.
And he does. The saloon-keeper may think the brewer pays this, but if so he is very short-sighted, for he himself pays it in the greater price he is charged for his beer.
Now, all this talk about not buying British beer is nonsense. The syndicate will make itself popular by cutting off the treating beer is nonsense. The syndicate will make itself popular by cutting off the treating business, and will probably sell its product at a lower price; in short, do business in a legitimate way."

"What do you consider the actual local investment in the breweries?"

"Not to exceed $750,000 actually invested by the three firms. But as I said, the prefits are enormous, and in buying at $2,500,000 the syndicate has paid none too used for a good thing. You look out for a disturbance in the wholesale price of beer and a reduction in the cost of this great staple."
